Fred MacMurray, Errol Flynn and Ralph Bellamy watch a comrade in a test maneuver in 'Divide by Zero'.

Warner's reputation for the excellence of its service pictures is well known and herein the studio immortalizes with Technicolor's aid the work of "Flight Surgeons," physicians who specialize in keeping aviators flying and averting mental and physical breakdowns. Made with the full cooperation of the United States Navy, it presents a spectacle of aviation far beyond that obtainable through private resources now or at any other time.

Items to be considered by exhibitors playing the film include: Errol Flynn and Fred MacMurray as aviators in the picture. The supporting cast includes Ralph Bellamy, Robert Armstrong, Regis Toomey, Allen Jenkins, Crate Stevens, Herbert Anderson, Moroni Olsen, Louis Jean Heyde, Cliff Nazarro, and two women, Alexis Smith and Dennis Moore, both of whom are used only for comedy relief.

The story, dealing with the Navy Medical Corps assigned to the safe arm of the fleet, includes highly technical displays and descriptions on the physical strain of flying, new techniques of sky fighting and lengthy scenes showing effects of high altitudes on aviators.

Featured as story points are the invention and development of an abdominal brace, used by flyers to prevent their "blackout" after a power dive, and a pressure suit, similar to those deep sea divers wear, for use in the statesphere.

Washington Letter

A real story. According to authentic information obtained from United States Treasury figures the Administration of President Roosevelt has spent, from March 4th, 1933 to July 1st, 1941 the gigantic sum of $72,595,000,000.00. Expenditures of the last two years alone will total $22,300,000,000.00. The total amount collected by Mr. Roosevelt's thirty predecessors in the office of President during the first 144 years of American history, was $91,000,000,000.00. So it now appears that Mr. Roosevelt will, during his time in the Presidency, spend more public money than all other presidents combined. Just how much is $72,595,000,000.00? A mathematician has figured out that if old Father Time, one of the Christ was born had started to throw into the sea $118 every second, and had continued his efforts without a single second's pause, without sleep or rest for twenty-four hours per day, for each of the seconds that have come and gone since, he would on July 1st, 1941 have thrown away just the exact amount the Roosevelt Administration has spent since March 1st, 1933—or $72,595,000,000.00.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By J. W. LEHMANN, D.D.
(Adapted by William H. H. H. H.)

Lesson for August 31

Lesson subject and Scripture text as indicated by the International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

JOHN UNGER CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—1 John 3:1-18; 7:21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.—1 John 3:18.

Love is a word so abused in modern speech that one almost hesitates to use it, and yet it stands for the very finest in all human relationships, and presents to us the very essence of the nature of God. We do well to redefine the meaning of love in our Sunday school classes this next Sunday. Love is not that sentimental, "wishy-washy" feeling which prompts the writing of emotional ballads, which are (like the supposed love of which they speak) "here today and gone tomorrow." Nor is it that lustful thing which now parades itself shamelessly as love, when it is nothing but animal passion. Nor is it that weak thing which totalitarian dictators make it out to be when they declare that to attain a people must hate, not love.

"Love is a desire for and delight in the welfare of another." It reaches out to all mankind, coming from God and being manifested in the gift of His Son as our Savior. It is stronger than any earthly bonds. It is able to bear unbearable burdens; yes, because He loved us Christ bore the sins of the whole world on Calvary. It expresses itself in courtesy, in high standards of life, and in sacrifice. Love is, as Henry Drummond put it, "the greatest thing in the world." Read 1 Corinthians 13 for Paul's exalted description of love.

Our lesson reveals two important facts about love—

1. Love is an Evidence of Regeneration (1 John 3:13-15).

There are two groups of people, the saved and the unsaved. The unsaved in Scripture are designated as "the world," meaning, not the physical world, but the world of unregenerate men who are against our God and His Christ. The saved are those who have come to God in Christ, who love Him and are in the center of His love. That love is, according to John, an evidence that we know God. There is an interesting contrast here.

1. The World-Haters and Killers (vv. 15-18).

Today the wicked heart of man apart from Christ is revealed. In the tragic events which have embroiled the whole world in conflict. The point is that we as Christians should not be surprised if that kind of a world exists. If it does, we should be troubled if it does not hate us, for if our Christianity means anything, it must be utterly alienated to a world driven by hatred and the lust for blood.

2. The Christian Loves and Gives (vv. 18, 16-17).

The mark of a Christian is love for God and love for the brethren. That love demonstrates its genuineness by giving freely to meet the need of another, just as God freely gave His Son for our redemption (cf. James 2:14-17).

The background of such an attitude is a proper understanding of our relationship to God, and an appreciation of His nature.

II. The Very Nature of God Is Love (1 John 4:7-21).

God not only loves, but He is love. 1. God Is Love (vv. 7, 8).

"Love is the very essence of His moral nature. He is the source of all love" (R. A. Torrey). Only the one who knows God as love knows Him at all. There is much thoughtless and meaningless talk about the love of God, as though it meant that He is careless about enforcing His divine law, that somehow He will overlook and excuse careless and wicked living. The fact is that the love of God has no real meaning unless it is understood in the light of the cross, for

2. God's Love Is Manifested in Christ (vv. 9-10).

He was sent as the giver of eternal life, the propitiation for our sins, our Savior, and thus as the highest and deepest expression of God's love. Faith in Christ (v. 15) puts the believer in the very center of the love of God. Precious hiding place!

3. Love Casts Out Fear (vv. 17-19).

Fellowship is impossible in an atmosphere of fear, but love rules fear out. In Christ we know that God first loved us, and then our hearts go out to Him in a warmth of devotion which brings us so close to Him that all fear is gone. The result of such fellowship with God follows for

4. He Who Loves God Loves His Brother (vv. 20, 21).

If a man loves God, he will obey Him, and His command, which is the Christian's, "Love your brother." That is the first and greatest commandment" (Matt. 22:36-40). Deut. 6:5; Luke 10:25-28). There is so use in our talking about loving God if we have no love for the brethren, for in doing so we make God angry against us that we are less (v. 20).

FARM TOPICS

WHEAT STORAGE BINS IMPORTANT

Poor Flooring, Foundation May Spoil Grain.

By E. W. LEHMANN
(Head of Department of Agricultural Engineering, University of Illinois.)

With an almost bumper crop of wheat in prospect, many farmers are planning for extra wheat storage on their farms as a result of a shortage of warehouse storage space. The first specification for a good bin is foundation footings large enough to prevent settling—on most soils one square foot of surface bearing on the ground for every 60 bushels of wheat. Footings need to be wider on soils that are not firm. Depth of foundation should be 22 inches to as much as 36 inches to protect against frost heaving and undermining by water, rodents and livestock. Fifteen to 18 inches above the ground is a good height for foundations. Small and medium-sized bins are often put on semi-permanent foundations such as stone or concrete blocks.

Floors and joists should be designed according to tables of weight-carrying capacity (such as found in U. S. Department of agriculture bulletins, "Wheat Storage in the Normal Granary") and the materials should be free of bad defects and termite damage. Tight floors are necessary to keep in gases during fumigation.

Concrete floors in bins for long-time storage need to be at least eight inches above the ground with hollow tile or coarse gravel underneath. It is a good plan to cover concrete floors with moisture-proof sheet paper or loose boards or to paint them with two coats of asphalt-aluminum paint. Bin walls can be made of various materials such as boards, plywood, metal or masonry, but must be strong enough to resist bursting pressure. Sometimes added strength is provided by wire or rod cross-ties. Walls must be tight to keep out moisture and to make fumigation feasible.

Simple Repairs Increase

Farm Tractor Efficiency

How to keep tractor power up and fuel costs down gives many a farmer a headache.

To try to help farmers relieve some of these "headaches," H. P. Balaban and G. M. Peterson, agricultural engineers of the University of Illinois college of agriculture, recently completed some tests on farmers' tractors.

They found that simply resetting the carburetor needle valve on some of the tractors gave a fuel saving of as much as 10 gallons for each 10-hour day. Improper adjustment of the carburetor was the most common cause found for high fuel consumption.

Adjusting the governor gave as much as a 20 per cent increase in the maximum power of some tractors operating under governor control, and more than doubled the power available at rated motor speed under governor control. Grinding the valves resulted in a third power, yet the fuel consumption was decreased nearly 10 per cent at the same power output in the case of a tractor with the valves in poor repair when brought to the laboratory.

Milk, Natural Greens

Booster Egg Yield

If hot summer weather has caused your birds' appetites to wane, revive them with green feed and milk. L. M. Black, extension poultryman at the New Jersey college of agriculture, Rutgers university, advises flock owners.

"Toward the end of the production year, layers often begin to lose interest in the standard rations," Black says. "Hot weather causes them to reduce feed consumption and lowered egg yields result. To counteract these effects, wise poultrymen feed supplementary materials to whet their birds' appetites, bolster depleted stores of vitamins and provide protein to stimulate egg production."

"Natural green material is generally plentiful during summer and proves a welcome addition to the laying ration. Fresh lawn clippings, sweet clover, cabbage, lettuce and many other garden vegetables—even many varieties of weeds—are excellent."

Combined Straw

Straw left on the field by the combine and plowed under late in the summer for a fall-seeded crop may have detrimental effects, says W. A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri college of agriculture. Straw going back into the soil directly will frequently be injurious to the next crop instead of beneficial. The cases of dangerous effects from straw turned under will increase as the number of combines employed on farms becomes greater.

Acid Test

By Charles H. H. H. H.

He had gone with her three years. They were the best of friends. Indeed, many people considered them lovers. Their groups always linked their names. It was Bob and Barb in many a social affair, but they were not engaged.

Robert Small is conscientious. He wants to do the right thing, but he has been engrossed in professional activities. He is normal, but has not considered establishing a home. Completing his course in journalism, at the local university, he found work on his father's paper. He also has a flair for politics and has worked his way into the graces of his party's leaders. When his father's life-long friend drew an appointment to the Treasury Department, Bob was invited to be his secretary. Soon he will go to Washington.

"It will be the acid test," said Bob to his parents as they discussed with him his friendship with Barbara. "I am not sure that I love her. She is very nice to me. Our friendship has been of the highest type. When it comes to love, like you read about in novels, I do not think I have it."

Barbara Young belongs to one of Brentwood's first families. Her father is a prominent merchant. Her mother moves in the best church and social groups. Barbara attended Miss Preston's School for Girls. She leans toward literary work. Several of her recent short stories have been accepted by publishers. She is very religious. She gives little thought to a home of her own. If it is to be, well and good. If she is not to be married that is very well, also. God rules.

"In Washington, I will meet many people," Bob went on. "There are the daughters of Senators and Congressmen, Army and Navy officers, diplomats, and other government folk. I will be away from Brentwood. Barb will be at a distance. It may be that distance will lend enchantment, and I will pine for the girl I left behind me. My experience will test my friendship, and here."

"That's not so bad," spoke up Mr. Small. "Marriage is a lifetime affair. The Smalls do not believe in broken homes. None of our relatives have figured in divorce. I think that is true also of the Youngs. You want to be sure you consider Barbara the only girl in the world. Your mother and I went with different people when we were single, but before we became engaged we knew we loved each other."

"Yes, Robert," softly spoke Mrs. Small. "Your father is telling the truth. Our home has been happy since our wedding day. I do hope you will be able to set up a happy home."

Robert Small is now facing a serious problem. He has come a long way in his present position. He has the friendship of a fine young lady. The next few months should determine whether he will ask Barbara Young to share his destiny. Likewise that period of time will determine the reply Barbara will give him if he asks her. Will it be Bob and Barb forever?

Young people have a right to expect that the homes they erect shall be happy. Only by the most careful consideration and a sincere commitment to the will of the Eternal can homes of destiny be built. They seldom just happen.

NOTICE

Mary Louise Johnston, whose last known place of residence is R. R. No. 4, Greencastle, Indiana, will take notice that on the 21st day of August, the undersigned, Robert W. Johnston, filed his petition against her in the Court of Common Pleas of Greene County, Ohio, praying for a divorce and relief on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. Said cause will be for hearing on and after the 10th day of October, 1941.

40-6 Robert W. Johnston,

By his attorney, Philip Aultman,

Wanted—Work for 16-year-old boy. Fraxee, third house east of Post Office, Cedarville, Ohio.

Early Ohio History

The tenth legislative session, December 10, 1811 to February 21, 1812, was the last at Xenosville, the capital then being moved back to Chillicothe.

Fortunately, for the country, Governor Meigs possessed wide military experience and the State Militia was made more efficient and appropriations made for clothing, blankets and supplies.

The forces were to act in conjunction with the regular United States troops and when so acting were to be paid and provisioned by the general government; but with the extra twelve dollars per month allowed by the State, they received more than twice the compensation of the regulars.

The official figures furnished by Governor Meigs showed a total rank and file of 22,640, with about 21,000 of these, nearly one-half of whom were armed and equipped.

War with Great Britain now seemed certain. Indian depredations began to be more frequent under British encouragement; the forerunner of a general conflict being the Battle of Tippecanoe, November 7, 1811, where General Harrison, then governor of Indiana territory, defeated the Indians under the Prophet. For weeks before the declaration of war, Ohio officials and military officers were busy preparing the militia for the conflict. President Madison called upon Gov. Meigs for twelve hundred militia, three hundred from each division, to march to the defense of Detroit. The point of rendezvous was Dayton, where they were joined by United States regulars. Major-General Hull, who had been governor of the territory of Michigan, received the transfer of the troops from the Governor and formed into three regiments under Cass, Meigs and Findlay, the army began their march northwest. As North-western Ohio was then Indian lands, Hull's forces before crossing the Greenish treaty line were obliged to receive permission from a confederate with the chiefs "to pass through and build supply depots and the necessary blockhouses."
